PRESIDENT D. R. FRANCIS.

BRIEF BIOGRAPHY

President David R. Francis.

THE President and General Director of the Saint Louis World's Fair or Louisiana Purchase Exposition is David R. Francis. He is fifty-four years old. He is tall, broad and ruddy. He has brown hair, gray or blue eyes, a mustache; is magnetic in quality, pleasing in personality—affability and courtesy personified. His brow is high and broad, his conversation graceful, correct and interesting. His manner most cordial, his perceptions keen, and all about him indicative of liberality, high intelligence and great executive ability. He has been Governor of the State of Missouri and Secretary of the Interior in Cleveland's Cabinet, and his political sky is still full of brilliant rainbows.

In the interest of the Grand Exposition of which he is the Life and Soul, he has done many famous things, among them these:

Traveled 14,920 miles.
Interviewed King of England.
Interviewed Emperor of Germany.
Interviewed President of France.
Interviewed King of Belgium.
Interviewed Ministers of King of Spain.
Got King Edward's promise to send Queen's jubilee gifts.
Got promises of other rulers to take active interest in Fair.
Left St. Louis Tuesday, February 10, 1903.
Arrived at New York February 11th, 1,200 miles.
Sailed for Havre, France, on La Bretagne, February, 12th.
Arrived at Havre February 20th, 3,300 miles.
Arrived at London, England February 21st, 200 miles.
Delivered address at Washington's birthday dinner in London February 22d.
Departed for France March 1st.
Arrived at Paris March 2d, 300 miles.
Arrived at Madrid March 4th, 908 miles.
Banqueted by Board of Trade in Paris March 7th.
Arrived at Berlin March 8th, 1,582 miles.
Private audience with German Emperor, March 9th.
Private audience with King of Belgium March 10th.
Arrived at Cherbourg, France, en route to the United States, March 11th, 400 miles.

Departed from Cherbourg for New York March 12th.
Arrived at New York March 17, at 6 p. m., 3,450 miles.
Banqueted in grand style at Waldorf-Astoria March 19th.
At dinner with Magazine Publishers March 20th.
Lunched with President Roosevelt in Washington March 21st.
Arrived in St. Louis March 22d, 7:45 p. m.
Reception on 'Change at noon March 23d.
Dinner by Mayor Wells at St. Louis Club, evening of March 23d.
Welcoming concert by United Singing Societies, evening March 24th.

In March 1904, negotiated with the United States Congress to loan the Exposition five millions of dollars and had the money in St. Louis within ten days after the passage of the act. Is today the most popular and most talked about man in the great State of Missouri.

THE LOUISIANA PURCHASE

THE inspiration of the Great Fair in St. Louis is found in the patriotic efforts of her citizens to celebrate in the most fitting and most impressive manner the 100th anniversary of the purchase by our Government in 1803 of that vast territory then known as Louisiana. As time heals wounds, so it also obscures facts. What at that time in extent was included in this purchase was indefinite, unknown, unexplored. France, then ruled by the Man of Destiny, claimed this vast area, and England, striving to solve the destiny of this man, no doubt did much to influence him to cede what might have been a new empire to the United States. Pique, jealousy, envy, hate, the fear that England might wrest it from him is the real reason Napoleon sold so vast a domain for 60,000,000 francs, about $12,000,000. To the transfer was a string—a condition, that the United States pay to the citizens of the territory the claims held by them against the French Government. These claims amounted to nearly $3,750,000, and were subsequently all paid.

On the 31st of October, 1803, Congress passed an act authorizing the President to take possession of the Territory. The lower portion was formerly taken December 20, 1803, and the upper portion in March, 1804.

It is, of course, now known that the Louisiana Purchase included what are now the States of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Colorado, the Indian Territory, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana and Oklahoma. The boundary lines of the country acquired were, however, not at that time very clearly defined. The Purchase was supposed to include the entire region between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains, and extending from the north of Texas to the southern boundary of British America, but afterwards territory east of the Mississippi was included, and this caused some little friction in the State of Georgia, whose area then included what is now the States of Mississippi and Alabama. That part of Louisiana east of the Mississippi River was always claimed by Georgia, and some considerable spirit of contention was at hand when all of the territory claimed by Georgia west of the Chattahoochee River was ceded to the general government the same year of the Louisiana Purchase. In this transaction Georgia lost nearly 100,000 square miles, and out of this domain were formed the States of Mississippi and Alabama, so that there is some foundation for the claim that these two last named States were part of the Louisiana Purchase.

To President Thomas Jefferson, more than any other, are we indebted for a happy conclusion of the whole matter. Aided by Monroe and Madison and Robert Livingston, the Purchase with France had been concluded, and Jefferson's Peaceful Policy soon adjusted the rights of contending claimants. As in the Alaska purchase, so criticism was rife against the policy of the administration, and the Republican Party, whose leader Jefferson then was, was denounced very much as the present administration was as to the Philippine purchase and conquest. Troubles did arise with England growing out of the Louisiana Purchase, and it was not till after the Battle of New Orleans that Great Britain finally abandoned all of her claims to that part of the Mississippi Territory. Jefferson lived to receive the unqualified endorsement of his countrymen, and the Louisiana Purchase is now regarded as one of the most important acts of his eight years' presidency, as well as the wisest. Those who opposed the Alaska purchase have passed away, and with them the sentiment of adverse criticism. Modern progress has demonstrated the vast wealth of Alaska, and the man who now raises his voice against its acquisition by the United States is unknown.

In fifty years who will oppose the acquisition of the Philippines? In one hundred years the United States, aided by its two billions of patriotic citizens, will be celebrating the centennial anniversary of the event with more grandeur and greater enthusiasm than it now strives to commemorate the memory of the LOUISIANA PURCHASE.

SAINT LOUIS

THE City of St. Louis has done many things to keep itself in the public mind. Its geographical situation is peculiarly attractive for commerce and manufacture. Long before Chicago had assumed the dignity of a metropolis, St. Louis was the wonder of the western country, and her trade and influence were felt and respected in all the vast territory north, west, south and southwest, and this trade and this influence have never waned. Commercially, in spite of booming rivals, St. Louis has steadily increased, and in its reputation for solidity and integrity, as well as enterprise and beauty, it has few equals—no superiors.

In 1764, the site of what is now St. Louis, was a trading post established by Pierre La Clede Lequest, and assisted by Auguste Chouteau, a small village soon made its appearance. These men and their followers were mainly French Catholics, and until 1771 French manners and sentiments prevailed. These in time gave place to English customs, but the influence of Catholicism has never waned, and is to-day the most potent factor in the religious and political life of St. Louis. For nearly thirty years the Spaniards occupied and ruled the place, and in 1780, May 25, the Indians attacked the town, burned the buildings and killed the citizens. In 1800 Spanish rule ceased and the French again became the dominant power. In 1803 France ceded all of her right, title and interest to the United States. In sixty years the population was less than 6,000, but from 1830, barring the period of the Civil War, the growth and prosperity of the city have been steady and rapid. In 1849 fire destroyed most of its business blocks and public buildings, but Phœnix-like, it rose from its ashes more splendid than before, and today its commercial magnitude places St. Louis in the highest niche among the great cities of the West.

Geographically, the city occupies a position on the west bank of the Mississippi River, twenty miles from its confluence with the Missouri River,

It is 700 miles north of New Orleans, 600 south of St. Paul, 1,100 southwest of New York, 289 south of Chicago, and about 340 miles west of Cincinnati. Its estimated population today is 900,000. In area it occupies about seventy square miles. It has twenty miles of river front and its greatest width is about seven miles. Thirty-one steam railroads enter the city, and 250 trains daily depart from the grand Union Station. It is connected with Illinois by the Eads Bridge and the Merchants Bridge. In many respects the Eads Bridge is the most remarkable in the world. It is nearly 2,000 feet long, 54 feet wide, has roadway and footway, and under these room for double track railway. It is 192 feet above the water, and its foundations rest on solid rock nearly one hundred feet below the bottom of the river. Six years were occupied in its building and nearly ten million dollars have been used to pay for the work.

The Merchants Bridge was commenced in 1889, and was opened for traffic in May 1890. It is a railway bridge only. It has three spans, each about 523 feet in length. Its cost has been something over two millions, and its importance to the commerce of the city is invaluable.

The city is rectilinear in form, with streets parallel to the river, and these intersected by other streets and avenues running at right angles, east and west, making blocks 300 feet square. Each block contains 100 numbers, irrespective of the actual number of houses or buildings on the same.

Nearly all known articles are manufactured in St. Louis. In its wholesale grocery trade it is ahead of all other inland cities. St. Louis beer is shipped to all parts of the world, and the best beer made in the United States is brewed here.

The stock yards cover a space of nearly a mile square, and the mule market is one of the wonders of the world. More mules are sold annually in St. Louis than in all markets of the country.

The city rises in undulations from the river to the west, and at its highest point, 428 feet above sea level, commands magnificent views of the rolling landscape and winding river.

Its sewer system is the most perfect in existence, one sewer alone, bisecting the center of the city east and west, is twenty feet wide and fifteen feet high.

The water supply is drawn from the Mississippi, is allowed to settle and is then filtered. The water works cost $10,000,000, and belong to the city. All streets are paved and traversed by trolley cars. Substantial and enormous business blocks are numerous, and the most elegant private residences are found within its limits.

There are twenty-five theatres, three public libraries, art galleries and the most renowned botanical gardens in America.

There are twenty large parks, magnificent drives, wooded avenues and endless gardens for summer concerts. There are 177 church edifices, 60 of which are Catholic, 4 Unitarian, 30 Presbyterian, and the rest pretty evenly divided except that the Methodists lead the others.

In the Fair grounds is maintained a permanent zoological department, and there is a public amphitheatre with a seating capacity of 30,000.

More than a dozen public and private hospitals are maintained. There is an asylum for the insane, a poorhouse, workhouse and a juvenile house of refuge.

Of the population three-fourths are natives; of the foreign-born the German leads in numbers.

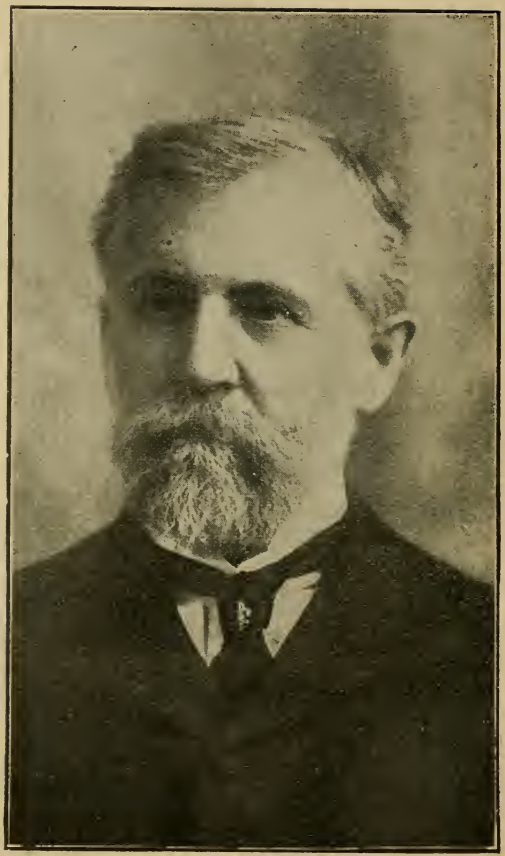
Colleges, universities, medical schools and 100 parochial schools are among the city's educational features, besides numerous convents, and a public school system long ago celebrated for its efficiency and the high scholarship of its teachers and students.

The sanitary conditions of the city are perfect, and its death rate is about eighteen per thousand.

The city is well equipped with hotels, 280 being now in actual operation.

The climate is delightful at all times, the spring-time soft and alluring, the summer warm, sometimes hot in the middle of the day, the evenings deliciously cool. The fall season is generally dry, the air bracing, the sky cloudless and the sun warm.

There are fewer paupers and less crime in St. Louis than in any other city of its size in the world.



WALTER B. STEVENS,
SECRETARY LOUISIANA PURCHASE EXPOSITION.

THE WORLD'S FAIR

THE Centennial Exposition held in Philadelphia during the summer of 1876 marked the completion of the 100th year of the existence of this Government.

Perhaps the most wonderful thing exhibited at that Fair was the Printing Press. In the Chicago World's Fair, seventeen years later, the most wonderful thing was the Telephone. On both occasions the wise man said that human ingenuity had reached its limit, and future World's Fairs will be lacking in practical inventive novelties. What wonder, then, will most astonish the thirty million visitors to the great St. Louis World's Fair. Will it be a perfect Baby Incubator, a perfect Type Setting Machine, or a perfect Airship? Perhaps none of these. Will it be an exhibition of Marconi's wireless method of transmitting messages, or will it be a telescope so powerful as to enable us to discern the spires that adorn the public buildings of Mars?

Whatever be the Wonder, be assured there is one, and may be several, and these will, more than anything else, help the beholder to retain a memory of the great St. Louis World's Fair.

On the extreme western limits of the city, adjoining Forest Park, are the Fair Grounds. They comprise 1,240 acres.

Fifty million dollars have been spent in beautifying the grounds and in erecting the palace-like buildings for the exhibits. In its aggregate it is the grandest and greatest in magnitude of any Exposition ever planned by man. Its attractions and wonders in part, may be summed up as follows:

Forty-four States and Territories appropriated $5,812,000.
United States Government, total appropriation, $6,473,000.
Amount raised by City of St. Louis and citizens, $10,000,000.
France, Germany, Mexico, England, China, Japan and Brazil, each to spend over $500,000 on elaborate exhibits.
Over fifty foreign governments make elaborate displays.
Main picture comprises ten great palaces arranged fan shape.
Festival Hall, 200 feet high, in center of Cascade Gardens.
Three great cascades, largest waterfalls ever constructed by man.
Ninety thousand gallons of water per minute flow over cascades.
Thirty-five miles of asphalt and gravel roadways in grounds.
The Art Palace, central structure, permanent; cost, $1,040,000.
Palace of Liberal Arts, 525x750 feet; cost, $480,000.

St. Louis is regarded as the best equipped for street car service of any city in the world. The most rapid transit is certain. The trolley car moves faster in St. Louis than in any other large city. The fare to all points is five cents, and one transfer ticket to connecting lines is issued. Except that what is known as the Suburban Park line, transfers are honored. This line issues transfers good on its own connections, and the City, or Rapid Transit Company, tranfers are not honored by the Suburban Park. Nearly all cars going west from Broadway or from Fourth street will take you to the World's Fair Grounds, and all cars going north or south will issue transfers to connecting lines that will take you to the Fair. A nickel is the whole cost.

If you are at the Union Station, 18th and Market, cars marked "Laclede Avenue" or "Market Street" going west, or to the left, as you emerge from the Station onto Market Street, will take you direct to the Fair Grounds without change; time, about twenty minutes.

Should you, however, become confused, do not hesitate to appeal to others for information. St. Louis people and St. Louis conductors are the personification of politeness, and the most quick in courtesy of any in the world, and the stranger is speedily made to feel that his or her lot has fallen in pleasant places.

DEPARTMENT OF POLICE.

The city is divided into twelve Police Districts, one of which is styled the Central, because it is headquarters for the heads of the Department. It is centered at the Four Courts. The next ten are designated by numbers from 1 to 10; then comes the Mounted, the station of which is located in Forest Park, and is one of the show places of St. Louis.

The force consists of about 1,500 persons, of whom about 850 are regular Patrolmen. The annual cost of maintaining the department is a trifle over $1,600,000. It is under the control of a Board of Police Commissioners, who receive their appointments from the Governor. The districts and stations are as follows:

Central — Twelfth St. and Clark Av.; Sub-Station, 111 Chestnut St.
First—7301 Pennsylvania Av.
Second—Ninth and Wyoming Sts., Sub-Station, Virginia Ave. and Meramec St.; Sub-Station, Arsenal St., near Gravois Road.
Third—714 Soulard; Sub-Station, Lafayette Park.
Fourth—Seventh and Carr Sts.
Fifth—Tenth and North Market Sts.
Sixth—Ninth and Angelica Sts.; Sub-Stations, O'Fallon Park and Fair Grounds.
Seventh—Grand Av. and Magnolia Av.; Sub-Station, 1414 Old Manchester Road.
Eighth—2827 Manchester Av.
Ninth—Jefferson Av. and Dayton St.
Tenth—4548 Easton Av.
Mounted—Clayton Av. and Forest Park; Sub-Stations, Old Manchester Rd., near Magnolia; Baden, North St. Louis and Center of Forest Park.

During the Fair a station will be maintained at the Fair Grounds.

THE POST OFFICE

is a large stone building located in the block bounded on the north by Locust Street, on the east by Eighth Street, on the west by Ninth Street, and on the south by Olive Street. Sub-stations have been established in all parts of the city, and ample facilities for handling the mail have been provided inside The World's Fair Grounds.

TERMINAL RAILROAD ASSOCIATION.

This is a combination of business men of St. Louis, organized to provide terminal facilities on the east side of the river; the Union Railway Transit Company was organized to provide freight terminals on the St. Louis side, and another company was organized and called the Union Depot Company of St. Louis, to provide passenger terminals. In 1889 all these were merged into the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis, the present company.

This company grew and its business became more extensive year by year until it reached its present large proportions. In September, 1894, the present big Union Station was opened. It is by far the largest railroad station in the country for the handling of through passenger traffic.

To handle the expected World's Fair traffic it was decided to abandon the old tunnel and to construct a loop from the Eads Bridge south above the levee. With this improvement passenger traffic is greatly facilitated, for the tunnel has been turned over to freight transportation. At the end of the loop near Washington Avenue a handsome and commodious station has been built, though all trains will as usual make the Union Station the St. Louis terminal.

W. S. McChesney, Jr., is president and general manager of the Association, and Julius S. Walsh is chairman of the Board.

PLACES OF AMUSEMENT.

POINTS OF INTEREST.

Anheuser-Busch Brewery.—The largest brewery in the world. Office and main entrance, corner Ninth and Pestalozzi Streets. Reached via Cass Avenue Line.

The Arsenal.—Located in the southern part of the city, on the river front at foot of Arsenal Street. Broadway Line to Arsenal Street, walk two blocks east.

Benton Park.—Located on Jefferson Avenue and Arsenal Street, covers 14.30 acres. One of the city's picturesque spots, containing a large clear-water lake and an artistic arrangement of flowers and plants; the Hecker monument, erected in honor of Colonel Hecker. Jefferson and Cass Avenue Lines.

Bellefontaine Cemetery.—Located on Broadway, Florissant and Morin Avenues. Covers an area of 350 acres. The largest Protestant cemetery in the city. Noted for its natural scenery and artificial beauty. The burial place of many of our generals and likewise of the prominent citizens of the city. Florissant Avenue entrance reached by Bellefontaine Line. Broadway entrance reached by Broadway Line.

Calvary Cemetery.—Located on Broadway, Florissant and Calvary Avenues, immediately north of Bellefontaine cemetery. Embraces an area of 262 acres, and is the largest Catholic cemetery in St. Louis. Like Bellefontaine, it ranks with the best cemeteries in our country for beauty and picturesqueness. General William Tecumseh Sherman, whose funeral was one of the most noted and impressive which has ever taken place in St. Louis, is interred here. His monument is located on the "Way of Bethany," near Florissant Avenue entrance. Florissant Avenue entrance reached via Bellefontaine line and Union Avenue Division of Suburban Railway. Broadway entrance reached by Broadway line.

Carondelet Park.—Located on Ninth and Kansas Streets. Area, 180 acres. One of the city's largest parks, which has been left to a greater extent in its natural state. It contains a large clear-water lake and many other attractive features, including a deer paddock. The park is covered with magnificent evergreen trees, and scattered about it are many rustic foot bridges. Bellefontaine Line to Kansas St. and Virginia Avenue, walk four blocks west.

City Hall.—Located Market Street to Clark Avenue, Twelfth to Thirteenth Street. Surrounded by City Hall Park, in which is located the famous Grant statue.

Court House.—Erected at a cost of $2,200,000. Pronounced by architects of international reputation to be one of the finest specimens of architectural art. Located on Broadway, Market, Chestnut and Fourth Streets.

Custom House.—POSTOFFICE—Eighth to Ninth Streets, Olive to Locust Street.

Compton Hill Reservoir and Park.—Located Grand and CORNER IN TRANSPORTATION BUILDING.

Lafayette Avenues. The reservoir, tower and park surrounding it cover an area of forty acres, in one of the prettiest parts of the city. Park distinguished for its splendid oak trees. Reached via Grand Avenue and Fourth Street Lines.

Eads Bridge.—Extending from the foot of Washington Avenue to East St. Louis.

Fair Grounds.—Extends over an area of 143 acres. Scene of Annual Fair, held first week in October. Located on Grand Avenue, Natural Bridge Road and Kossuth Avenue. Main entrance on Grand and Natural Bridge Road, reached via Grand Avenue Line, Jefferson Avenue Line, Cherokee Line, Eighteenth Street Line. Entrance to Grand Stand and Jockey Club House on Vandeventer Avenue and Natural Bridge Road.

Jefferson Barracks.—Located on the west bank of the Mississippi River, ten miles south of the city. A United States military post, not fortified. The most renowned leaders in the Civil War were at some time stationed here. The National Cemetery, covering an area of twenty acres, is located south of the Post. There are 11,762 graves in the cemetery, the names of 8,855 of the buried only being known. Being on the bluffs, the Barracks commands a splendid view of the Mississippi. Reached via south-bound Broadway Line.

Lafayette Park.—One of the oldest parks in the city, covering an area of 29.95 acres, located on Mississippi and Lafayette Avenues. Prior to the cyclone in May of the year 1896, its trees, especially the tall sycamore and elm trees, were the pride of St. Louis. Since the ruin wrought by that disaster a large amount of time and money have been expended for improvements, and to a great extent its beauty is being restored. Near the center of the park is found a pretty lake containing a small island. On an elevation to the south of this stands the statue of Washington, erected in 1876, and the exact center of the grounds is marked by a bronze statue of Thomas H. Benton, flanked by three cannons, which are trophies of the war of 1776. Dispersed about the park are numerous flower displays of artistic arrangement. There is a music stand, from which may be had a commanding view of the entire park. Reached via Tower Grove, Park Avenue, Compton Heights and Fourth Street Lines.

League Park.—Located on Vandeventer Avenue, Natural

Bridge Road and Prairie Avenue. Reached via Vandeventer Avenue, Jefferson Avenue, Cherokee, Spring Avenue and Eighteenth Street Lines.

Lemp's Brewery.—One of the largest and finest equipped breweries in the United States. Visitors welcomed and shown through the plant by polite attendants. Located on Cherokee and South Thirteenth Streets. Take Cherokee Line going south to Lemp Avenue and Cherokee Street, walk two blocks east, or take Seventh Street Line to Cherokee, walk one block west.

Lyon Park.—Named in honor of General Lyon, of Civil War fame. Area covered, 10.92 acres. Located on Broadway and Arsenal Street. Reached by south-bound Broadway Line.

Mercantile Library.—Southwest corner of Broadway and Locust Street. Entrance on Locust Street. Founded in 1845 by a few business men of the city. In 1887, at a cost of $400,000, the building which is now occupied by the Library Association was erected. The library contains 140,000 volumes, to which new books are added as soon as published and its reading room is regularly supplied with domestic and foreign newspapers and magazines.

Merchants Bridge.—Extends from foot of Ferry Street to East St. Louis. Steel bridge, designed only for railroad traffic. Structure completed in May, 1890.

Merchants' Exchange.—Third, Pine and Chestnut Streets. Completed in December, 1875, at a cost of nearly $2,000,000, is considered the most substantial building in the city. The part fronting on Third Street is occupied by business offices. In the Western portion the members of the Exchange congregate daily from 9:15 a. m. to 1:15 p. m. for the transaction of business. Here is also located the Grand Hall, which is unexcelled by any other in the country. It is 221 feet ten inches long, ninety-two feet six inches wide and eighty feet high. Its windows, which are seventy in number, are arranged in two tiers. Between these two tiers of windows extends a gallery around the entire hall. The ceiling is marvelously beautiful, being frescoed in three large panels, which are most splendid productions of art. The woodwork in the hall is mostly of solid walnut, mahogany and other hard woods.

Museum of Fine Arts.—Eighteenth Street and Lucas Place. Contains valuable collection of statuary, painting, pottery and carvings, also a large collection of casts from both antique and mediæval sculpture, besides several works in marble and bronze, and a collection of art work in porcelain, glass, metal and wood. Eighteenth Street Line and Olive Street Line.

O'Fallon Park.—Area covered, 158.82 acres. A park in its primitive state, occupying a commanding situation overlooking the Mississippi river. From observatory in park may be obtained a splendid view of the surrounding country. Located on Broadway, Bircher Street and Florissant Avenue. Main entrance on Florissant Ave. Reached by Bellefontaine Line, North Sarah Street Division of Suburban cars and Union Avenue Division of Suburban cars.

Public Library.—Located on sixth floor Board of Education Building, northwest corner Ninth and Locust Streets. Entrance on Locust Street. The Library contains 170,000 volumes and 38,000 pamphlets. It has eleganly equipped reference and reading rooms. Its membership numbers 60,000.

Tower Grove Park.—Noted for its artistic beauty, covers an area of 266.76 acres. It contains every variety of shrub and tree that will thrive in this latitude. A pond with many varieties of water lilies is located at the northern entrance and an artificial lake in the western portion. Fountains are dispersed throughout the grounds. Surrounding the music pavilion are busts of the famous composers, Gounod, Verdi, Rossini, Mozart, Wagner and Beethoven. Costly bronze statues of the great discoverer, Columbus; the naturalist, Humboldt; and the poet, Shakespeare. The driveways, which have been laid out with the greatest accuracy, are considered pre-eminently among the best in the city. Grand Avenue to King's Highway and Arsenal Street to Magnolia Avenue. Reached via Grand Avenue, Fourth Street, Tower Grove Line, Compton Heights, Park Avenue and King's Highway Lines.

Union Station.—Located on Eighteenth and Market Streets. The largest railroad station in the world, covering an area of 496,920 square feet, or eleven acres. Grand Central Hall has a floor area of 8,800 square feet. The Midway is 606 feet by fifty feet. Train Shed, 900 feet by 606 feet. There are nineteen miles of track in the Union Station system. The power house, covering an area of twenty acres, has six boilers, with total horsepower of 1,500. On top of the power house is the interlocking tower, which is the largest in the country, operating 131 levers, 132 switches and 108 signals. The baggage room is to the west of the train shed. Adjoining these are the buildings of the Adams, Southern, Pacific, American and Wells-Fargo Express Companies. The station is the terminus of twenty-five railroads.

Water Towers.—OLD TOWER.—Located at 2021 East Grand Avenue. Reached via north-bound Grand Avenue or Bellefontaine Lines.

NEW TOWER.—Located on Blair Avenue and Bissell Street. Take Bellefontaine car to Twentieth and Bissell Streets, walk two blocks east.

From the tops of these towers may be had a splendid view of the city and surrounding country. Open every day.

Water Works.—Located in the extreme northern part of the city, at Bissell's Point. Here the water is pumped from the Mississippi river into the settling basins and undergoes the various processes of filtration and purification until ready for city supply. Take Broadway Line, alight at Grand Avenue or at Ferry Street, walk east to river.

INTERESTING SUBURBAN TOWNS.

St. Louis is surrounded by a number of attractive suburban towns, many of them rich in historic associations and some of them noted for their great commercial and industrial magnitude. The most noted suburb adjacent to the city is East St. Louis. Its population is nearly 60,000. In it are located the large packing houses of Swift & Co., Armour & Co., and other large packing corporations. There is also located within its limits the famous St. Louis Mule Market and the Union Stock Yards. A few years ago East St. Louis was nothing more than a mud hole but modern enterprises have elevated it to the position of a high and dry city, and its street level is now thirty-seven feet above the normal water mark of the Mississippi River.

On Cahokia Creek, in East St. Louis, is located the most remarkable and most wonderful tomb or pyramid in the world. It is nearly as large as the largest pyramid of Egypt and ever since the discovery of the country has been an object of wonder to the tourist. Within its confines are subterranean passages divided into vaults and cells in which lie buried the remains of prehistoric races. With these remains have been found specimens of ancient pottery in rare designs, gold and silver plate, diamond-studded crowns and jewels of the most costly value. When these people lived is only conjecture, but they have left monuments which leave no doubt in the mind of the student that they were of a race of intellectual greatness and artistic superiority.

East St. Louis may be reached by trolley car, and the visitor will find much to interest him.

Ten miles south of St. Louis is the historic spot known as Jefferson Barracks. During the Great Rebellion the North and South occupied at different times this famous place, and among some of the distinguished officers who were seen within its confines may be named Gen. Robert E. Lee, Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock, Gen. Albert Sidney Johnson, Gen. Jubal Early, and that immortal hero of an hundred battles, Gen. Ulysses S. Grant.

The scenery about the Barracks is beautiful, the river flows majestically at the foot of the bluff of the reservation, and here one can stand on a clear day and command for miles and miles a view of the mighty Mississippi as it flows to the ocean. Near the reservation is the National Cemetery, in which lie buried 8,000 heroes of the Civil War.

Along the line of the 'Frisco Railroad and on the Suburban Trolley Line are such beautiful and attractive suburbs as Maplewood, Meramec Highlands and Frazier Park. Creve Cœur Lake is also considered one of the most famous suburban places of St. Louis. The Lake affords splendid fishing and boating, and in the winter skating is one of the popular amusements. A theatrical company has its headquarters on the borders of the Lake, and has provided the visitors with entertainment for the summer. It may be reached by trolley or steam cars.

Fern Glen is a picnic ground of great renown, about twelve miles southwest of the city on the Missouri Pacific Railway.

An immense pile of earth, that has inspired speculative minds to wonder by whom it was constructed, is known as Monk's Mound, said to be the largest Indian mound in the United States. This mound is 1,080 feet long and 6,750 feet wide, and is supposed to contain the remains of the earlier inhabitants of our country.

The oldest French village in the upper Mississippi valley is Cahokia, Illinois. It contains many quaint houses, and one of its objects of interest is a church edifice erected 162 years ago. Many of the houses in the town were built of walnut slabs, and they still defy the effects of time and present a most pleasing as well as suggest an expensive exterior. To reach Cahokia, cross the river on the Carondelet ferry at the foot of Davis Street, and drive about four miles to the east.

Another little village which attracts numbers of visitors is Florissant. It is on a branch of the Suburban Railroad in St. Louis County. Its houses are of the old French style of architecture. Most of them were erected long before St. Louis was founded.

A suburb and point of interest is Kaskaskia, Illinois. This place may be reached by a pleasant steamboat ride on the river, and its appearance as well as historic associations suggest many things to the mind of the student.

Kaskaskia was the first capital of the State of Illinois; now, however, it is only a fishing village.

Near Kaskaskia is St. Genevieve, said to be the oldest town in the State of Missouri.

A few miles down the river is the city of St. Charles, an attractive and interesting place which may be reached either by steamer or by trolley cars recently put in operation.

X, Y, Z, OR, THINGS TO REMEMBER.

The price of admission to the Fair is 50 cents. Children are admitted for 25c.

The Fair will not be open nights or Sundays.

It will cost you $22.25 to see all the attractions along the Pike.

Justice of the Peace J. B. Greensfelder of Clayton has been assigned to quarters in the Administration building, and will act as Police Judge in the World's Fair grounds during the Exposition season.

There is an hotel within the grounds known as The Inside Inn. If you stop in The Inside Inn you do not have to pay to get in the Fair.

That if you follow the instructions and directions found in this Guide you can neither get lost nor lose others.

And remember also that there are ample hotel accommodations, and that rates are as reasonable as can be expected.

THE above picture is one of the Mermod & Jaccard Building, on the Northwest corner of Broadway and Locust Street. It is nine stories in height and one of the largest buildings in the city. It is owned by the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Company, whose officers and directors are: Goodman King, President; C. F. Mathey, Vice-President and Treasurer; R. O. Bolt, Secretary; F. C. Hoyt, Assistant Secretary; E. H. Mead, A. F. Strasburger, A. C. Stewart, J. J. Menges, Directors.

Visitors to the World's Fair are cordially invited to inspect this magnificent emporium. The display of Marble and Bronze Statuary, Hand-Painted Enamels, Art Potteries and Bric-a-Brac, Cut Glass and Silverware, Watches and Diamonds, is the most magnificent in this country.
